

ECONOMICS OF TROPICAL FISHERIES

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1965

Convener—JAMES A. CRUTCHFIELD, University of Washington, Seattle, Washington

THE GULF AND CARIBBEAN FISHERIES INSTITUTE and the International Conference on Tropical Oceanography held joint sessions on Economics of Tropical Fisheries and High Seas Fisheries November 17 and 18, 1965. The invited papers of these two joint sessions are listed by title and author. They will be published with the papers from the later sessions of the International Conference on Tropical Oceanography as Studies in Tropical Oceanography III of the Institute of Marine Science of the University of Miami. This publication will be available from the Publications Office of the Institute of Marine Science of the University of Miami. Certain contributed papers to the joint High Seas Fisheries session are published in these Proceedings.

Fishery Development in the Common Property Context

Anthony D. Scott
University of British Columbia
Vancouver, B. C.

The Development of Traditional and Large Scale Industrial Fisheries in the Tropical Waters of Africa

John Dibbs
FAO of the
United Nations
Rome, Italy

Economic Aspects of Fishery Development in the Philippines

James A. Storer
U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries
Washington, D. C.

Marketing as a Constraint on Fisheries Development in Tropical Countries

James A. Crutchfield
University of Washington
Seattle, Washington

*Decision-Problems
in Fisheries*

William F. Royce
Fisheries Research Institute
University of Washington
Seattle, Washington

HIGH SEAS FISHERIES

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1965

Co-Conveners—JOHN L. KASK, International Tuna Commission, San Diego, California

and

WILBERT M. CHAPMAN, Van Camp Foundation,
San Diego, California

Fishery Development in Peru

Alfredo V. Freyre
Instituto
del Mar del Peru
Lima, Peru

Japanese High Seas Fishery Development

T. Kamenaga
Production Division
Fisheries Agency
Tokyo, Japan

*The Development of Fisheries of the West
African Coast*

Hiroshi Kasahara
Fishery Division, Special
Fund of the United Nations
New York, New York

*High Seas Fisheries of
the Eastern Pacific*

Wilbert M. Chapman
Van Camp Foundation
San Diego, California

Recent World Developments in High Seas Fisheries

Mario Ruivo
Fisheries Division, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations
Rome, Italy